The Kino manuscripts are followed by numerous other documents on the missions: a letter of Father Juan de Mendoza to González, from Querétaro, April 25, 1702, (if. 5-5v) ; Father Pedro de Sandoval asks Gonzalez for permission to return to the Pimeria missions, Puebla, May 20, 1702 (if. 6-6v) ; a letter of Father Francisco Maria Piccolo to Gonzalez, reporting on the Lower California missions, from Mexico City, May 17, 1702 (copy and original : if. 7-9v) ;⁴⁷ a letter of Father Domingo Quiroga to the new Jesuit General, Michelangelo Tamburini, writing about the missions of Lower California and the Pimeria, from Madrid, October 16, 1711 (if. 10-10v).

The next document interrupts the series of mission reports. It is a message of Father Santiago de Zamora to the next Jesuit General, Francis Retz, discussing the establishment of sodalities, from Mexico City, May 7, 1736 (if. 11-11v).

The mission documents are resumed by Father Juan Maria Salvatierra's autograph letter to Father Alejandro Romano, Rector of Tepotzotlán, from Lower California (Loreto), October 11, 1711 (if. 18-19v).

The next long series of documents concerning the northern Mexican missions are reports sent in by their respective missionaries and covering the years 1716-1720 (if. 20-24; 29-50). For detailed information on each and the texts themselves, I refer the reader to ABZ III, pp. 491-518, where the documents — 24 in number — are reproduced in full.

Jesuits of the Andalusian Province (Spain), giving an account of the martyrdom of Carranco and Tamaral (see preceding document), from Mexico City, April 25, 1736 (if. 64-71).

Two very lengthy manuscripts deal with the 1740 uprising of the Indians of northern Mexico during the governorship of Manuel Bernal de Huidobro: (1) the causes of the rebellion (if.

juato, written by the Rector of the school, Father Ignacio Coromina, dated June 7, 1762 (ff. 219-254).⁵³

The remaining documents were written by the Mexican Jesuits exiled in Europe since 1767. The Provincial José de Utrera gives an account of the life and death of Father Agustin Antonio Marquez (ff. 256-276v) ;⁵⁴ a brief Latin account (incomplete) of the Colegio del Espiritu Santo in Puebla (ff. 277-279v) ; Father José Bellido sends to his fellow Jesuits the account of the life and death of three members of the Mexican Province : (1) Father Dionisio Pérez; (2) Father Ignacio Fano, and (3) Brother José de Barragân, all written in 1773 (ff. 280-305).

The volume closes with three items on devotion to Our Lady of Guadalupe, dated 1803 (ff. 306-311).

Number 19, a cardboard box entitled Mexicana historia, 1571-165A, 1763, contains ten manuscripts on Mexican Jesuit history. The documents, although constituting completely separate items, are stamped folio-wise from 1 through 370. The documents have a typewritten index.

The first manuscript, foliated 1-72v, is entitled Historia de las cosas mâs dignas de memoria que han acontecido en la fundaçiôn, principios y progressas de la Compania de Jésus en esta Provincia y Reynos de Nueva Espana. After the manuscript present volume were studied in the editing of ABZ III. Many of the items of this volume are repeated in the 15 printed volumes of the writings of Palafox (Madrid, 1762) and in other manuscript collections and archives, e.g., volumes 13-16 and 20 of Polemica in ARSI, and in the Fondo Gesuitico.

Volume 21 lists in alphabetical order the Mexican Jesuits exiled
