StudentLearning Outcomes

Which of the program's student learning outcomes were assessed annual assessment cycle lease list the full, completelearning outcome statements and not just numbers, e.g., Outcomes 1 and 2.)

Because critical thinking and presentation skills have not been recently assessed, we decided components to searning outcomes two, three and four should be assessed. Specifically, we assessed course which include competency in: 1) critical evaluation of scientific literature, 2) in written communication skills with resect to clarity, use of appropriate grammar, syntax and vocabulary to effectively present information including the use of figures, tables and citations, and 3) in oral communication skills with respect to content, organization, presentation and deliverage of visual aids, and ability to answer audience questions.

2. Assessment Methods: Artifacts Student Learning

Which artifacts of student learningere used to determine if students adheved theoutcome(s)? Pleasedescribe and identify the course(s) in whidthese artifacts were collected larify if any such courses were offered a) online b) at the Madrid campusor c) at any other off-campus location.

In ANAT6990 Journal Club students give a presentation in which they critically evaluate a research article in the anatomical field to faculty and peers. Each faculty member evaluates the presentation by completing a rubric that consists of the following categories: article selection, background knowledge and introduction of topic, questions and experimental design, critical analysis of results, slides/visual aids, oral presentationlinedydability to answer questions and overall performance.

3. Assessment Methods: Evaluation Process

What process was used to evaluate the artifacts student learning, and by whom? eas(t)0.6 (u)2.4 (se d6 (u)2.7 (a)-7 (a) a rubric) used in the process and include them in/with this reproductument